However, College Board states that the official SAT score sent to colleges after five years or more will include a message that the test score will be a less valid predictor of the academic performance of the candidate. The SAT structure was changed in 2016, so, many colleges do not accept SAT scores from the old format. Technically, SAT scores are valid forever, which means they do not have an expiry date, but many universities do not accept scores that are older than five years or more. Sp, if your SAT scores are older than five years, you should think of taking the exam again. SAT Score Verification SAT Score verification is nothing but a reevaluation of your test scores, to check that you have received scores in all sections and nothing has been skipped. So, if you feel that the SAT score that you received is different than what you expected, you may have missed or made a mistake in marking your answers. Another reason for a different SAT score than expected can be that your Essay is illegible or blank when one views it online. Under SAT score verification you have three options: Multiple-choice hand score verification Essay score verification Or both, Multiple-choice and Essay score You can put in this request within the next five months after test day by filling in a SAT score verification form. Before going further, it is advised to read the instructions carefully given on the form. You will also be required to submit a score verification fee. For students with a fee waiver, this score verification fee will be reduced. You will receive a letter with the new and confirmed results within five weeks once you pay the verification fee and submit your form. If there are any changes in the SAT scores post verification due to an irregularity in the scoring or scanning process, the verification fee will be refunded. SAT Score Cancellation For any reason, you need to cancel your SAT Score, here are two methods through which one can cancel their SAT scores: At the test center: If you are unsure about how the test went, or if you feel like you have skipped a number of questions, you can cancel your test right then and there. Right at that moment, at the test center, you can ask the supervisor for a 'Request to Cancel Test Scores' form. Fill in all details along with your signature. Submit the form to the supervisor. Make sure you submit this before leaving the test center. At home: If your poor performance hits you after you leave the test center, you can cancel your test at home as well. However, there is a time limit to it. You need to submit your cancellation request by writing to College Board as quickly as you can because the deadline for receiving such requests will be 11:59 PM (IST) on a Wednesday after the test date.
